Faces . . .

Picture, if you will nothing
with all the potential of becoming anything and everything imaginable.

Now, from here you must go on.
Suddenly
you see a thousand eyes, each two belonging to a different world.

You have a beginning.
Facing death
Facing life
Facing the unknown
Facing time
All scenes seen give depth to these eyes,
create a search for expression.

English

We are man.
We have an instinctual need to express ourselves;
  and do it mostly through language.
All aspects of English are these expressions.
  Therefore,
No literary work can escape being a study of man.
We learn to know ourselves through it;
Learn to see ourselves–
  As we fit into the environment surrounding us
In history preceding us, and in the future.

To think–
  What we write will later be what others study.

Wer lacht hier, hat gelacht?
Hier hat sich's ausgelacht.
Wer hier lacht, macht verdacht,
Dap er aus Grunden lacht.

Who laughs here? And who smiles?
Who smiles is full of wiles.
Who laughs, he is not pleasing–
He must have some dark reason.

Is there any truth to the rumor that the majority of the students who take psychology are a little bit "off" themselves?

Could it possibly be that students taking government really want to find out about their own true blue, red, and white country?

Could it be true that most students who take American History do it just so they get to use the brand new books that will be in use at BCHS for the next fifteen years?

Is it true that students come out of sociology class with the unique idea of changing the world?

Probably not. But, it's something to think about.

Bible

There are often a lot of important ideas being tossed around in Bible class. However, it takes energy and initiative to delve in and learn from what is constantly floating by.

As broad as is the scope of Bible teachers and teaching methods which we've seen this year, so wide is the range of interest in what has been taught.

Music

Music isn't something that appears and is suddenly a masterpiece in performance. Rehearsals are daggered by endless repetition, frustation, and occasional doubts about that "passion" which made us music lovers. Inevitably there are breathless moments; there comes a day when that which we hardly dared to imagine becomes reality, and we grin slightly and recognize the music.

Phys. Ed.

Phys. Ed. is more than fun and games
It's getting all sweaty and then realizing you don't have a towel
It's taking out your frustrations on the trampoline
It's powder fights in the locker room, and the feeling of a cold shower
It's finally doing a handstand for three seconds and realizing that Pert isn't watching
It's strained muscles and feelings of accomplishment
But most importantly, it's working as a class, helping others acheive along with yourself

Chapel

Every other morning we stop after our first period class to go to chapel. We drag into the coldest room in the building. Perhaps this coldness will wake us up.

We all sit and wait to see what will happen this day. Will it be a barber shop quartet? Or an Ex-Hippie? Today it's a speaker.

As Bill Hooley introduces this speaker, Lester (in back) turns the microphone up. Is this to wake us up?

We listen to the speaker with interest—or at least with an open mind. Because this is the best way to get something out of a presentation. As we listen, some of us watch the clock, and wait for the consession stand to be opened, while others wait for chapel to end in order to talk to this speaker.

Now the 20 minutes are up. We each go our separate ways.

"Dance, dance till the whites all vanish."

"The name of the town is Grovers Corners."

"Beg your pardon, ladies."

"Momma, were you pretty?"

"Now I couldn't get Annie Oakley on such short notice."

"Do live people ever realize life while they live it?"

"That would have been the cheapest Indian war on record."

"No."

– OK everybody, five minute break. Is Sitting Bull absent today?

– I can't find my script!

– How are you gonna make me look like I have high cheek bones?

– We need five pairs of suspenders, Ev.

And so went the evening, and many other evenings, as we prepared for the performances of Stewart Vaughn's GHOST DANCE in the spring of 1975 and in the fall of the same year, Thornton Wilder's OUR TOWN.

Sub II

On April 17th-19th, 1975, Bethany students pulled together in a second effort to raise money toward the elimination of the school's debt; hence, Students Unite for Bethany II. SUB II included a rummage sale, bake sales, an auction sale, and car washes, all operated for Bethany's profit. The thing that people will probably remember most about SUB II is the walk. Trudging those 15 rainy miles from Island Park in Elkhart to Bethany is the kind of experience we can never hope to forget.

- –piling into the school bus
- –walking through the cold wind and damp rain
- –stopping to eat around a fire at Ox Bow Park, only to face the wetness again
- –for some, walking the wrong route which was about two miles longer
- –seeing the sun shine upon entering Bethany's parking lot

Thanks to the support of the Bethany community in the project, SUB II succeeded in raising nearly $20,440 for the school's benefit.

Jr.8 Sr. Banquet

The Junior-Senior Banquet consists of a lot of work, time, and effort. Our gym, which is small, seemed huge when we had to paint it. We thought we'd never finish. Finally it was done.

The night of the banquet came. We stood first outside and were served hors d'oeuvres by peasants and fishermen. As we entered, we walked into "The Ship Yards." We could see the ocean and the dock. We could also see the village in the background. The tables were covered with burlap and lighted by oil lamps. After being seated, we chose a salad at the salad bar. Then we were served a meal of Spanish rice, garlic bread, and cherry cheese cake. After the Masters of Ceremonies read the Senior Class Will and made a few announcements, we were entertained by the movie, "The African Queen."

A sigh, and it was over.

Graduation

We were anxious to graduate whether it meant a job and new independence or the excitement and challenge of college life. We were ready to leave our high school years behind us.

The graduation tradition called for ceremony and we worked to make it our own with speeches, a class song, and no caps.

We were anxious to graduate, knowing that those things which had touched us (at Bethany) we store up within us and take with us as we move on.

Planning, worrying, thinking, organizing, selling tickets, counting supplies, shredding cabbage, folding carryout boxes, finding someone to guard the pies, cutting 1,000 squares of tin foil, hunting down people, hauling lumber, setting up tables, borrowing pots, pans, and pitchers, setting up chairs, finding replacements.

It's time. The people come and eat . . . and eat . . . Suddenly all of them are gone and it's over. But no, we still have to clean up! United in our tiredness, we take our shoes off our blistered feet, change into jeans and begin. We disassemble everything and put it back in its place, until next time. Good luck, juniors.

Concerns, Comments, and Announcements:
"10 days till we leave"

"Turn in your dues, pledges, and medical sheets to Michael of Pat."

"If you look at the itinerary, you might get some idea how much money to take."

"Reservations have now been made to eat at the Court of Two Sisters, visit Rosedown Plantation, take Cotton Blossom cruise, also to be at Preservation Hall."

"How many people won't eat pancakes (in case we say that is all the class will pay for)?"

Destination: New Orleans
- –60 people coexisting on two small buses
- –a Ronald McDonald puppet show
- –a nap on newsprint
- –singing hymns in four part harmony

Weren't those the things that made it all worthwhile?

Interterm

Just after Xmas vacation, and just before second semester; students at BCHS participate in Interterm. For two weeks, students take a course that they themselves have chosen.

Some of the courses being offered were: Quilting, Macrame and Beginning French. There were three courses that took interterm students out of Goshen, such as Winter Backpacking, and a trip to Mexico or Florida.

Interterm is a good experience for most students, because it gives them a chance to try out something (on school time) that they might find interesting but wouldn't have time for in a normal class schedule.

The 1975 Girls Volleyball season, how do I sum it up?

Old faces, new ones,
Practices, exhaustion,
Knee pads, the school uniforms,
Referees, assorted competition,
Traveling in the "reliable" school bus,
Strange locker rooms, a multitude (?) of fans.
Our coach "Pert."

What was the end result?
Varsity had an 11-9 record,
8-Team, 10-1, and C-Team 1-1.

Girls' Basketball

We were a small team in number as well as in height, but through Pert's expert coaching we were able to improve quite a bit over last year. With a strong defense and the advantage of our speed, we found that we could handle the challenge of some strong opposition. We experienced victory by winning games, but also by achieving our own goals for each individual game, whether or not the scoreboard proclaimed us victors.

With high anticipation for the beginning of the season, we were faced with the major task of working together as a team. Although the season had it's ups and downs; with the coaching team of Ed Herr and Dan Bodiker, individual talent was tuned and molded to form team play. There is no one person at Bethany who can accurately represent each class and the faculty. That is why we have the Student Body Association.

The S.B.A. is made up of representatives of each class and a faculty sponsor. We come together with the opinions and suggestions of the people who elected us, and the willingness to express those ideas.

When we are done we will have a place not reflecting just one person's ideas, but instead a real reflection of a diverse group. In a sense we will have created that one person in the form of a new concept.

This year at Bethany there are 3 ICYE students, Eliza Salvador from the Philippines, Shigeru Toda from Japan, and Barbara Krobath from Austria.

"It's not easy to be a member of such an international program like this. At first I thought that it would be hard to deal with people having different values, cultures, and life styles. But being in ICYE and at BCHS for almost a year taught me how to understand different people's way of life.

I want to thank my host family for their kindness and thank BCHS. More power to you."

Eliza Salvador

"People! I really like your school! If I were to establish a school I would take Bethany's basic idea. It's not only a place for studying but also a place to make friends. To me Bethany is like a family with it's small size and a menno spirit that keeps you close together. Thanks for your love and understanding. I'm sure that my experiences here will influence my life in a positive way. If you ever come to Austria you've got to be my guest, OK?"

It's very difficult for a blind person to live in a foreign country. For example learning the language was harder; and it was harder to make friends because THEY have to approach ME.

But Bethany is nice because students are kind. And sometimes they make the first move. I am glad to have come here under ICYE rather than coming alone because I don't believe the handicapped can go abroad alone. I came here with a group of students.

I hope to learn something about this country and be able to help someone in the future.

High Aim

The High Aim program was started in 1968 by Leroy Berry to bring minority students from urban areas into Mennonite high schools and communities. Art Griffin has recently become the new co-ordinator.

It's been said that the past two years have been the most vocal years of the High Aim students so far. These are some of the things they've been saying.

"We aren't here to fit into 'the mold' but instead, to add new dimensions to it."

"Don't like (or dislike) me in spite of what I am; but because of who I am."

"We found that we have to be vocal because there's no one else to do it for us."

High Aim cures apathy.

Individuals

The BCHS teachers and administrators began the new school year by setting some goals for themselves. Their goals were simple and forthright, including the desire to:

1) relate in a closer, more personal way to each other
2) learn to know students better as individuals and friends
3) confront students with Christian values and affirm their Christian life
4) listen to what students are saying
5) increase communication between disciplines
6) individualize instruction as much as possible
7) have patience . . .
8) do the best job possible
9) create a learning, caring atmosphere in the classroom
10) pursue professional and graduate study
11) develop a strong Christian unity in the faculty

The school finds us indispensable, (after 4 years) and we have learned to accept our position (on top). The future looms apprehensible, but fresh, not yet marred by our own touch (imperfection). We hope these 4 years will merit nostalgia, not only regrets (we brushed shoulders, but did we ever really touch each other?) We remember the laughing, the caring (the tense tears, too). They together make up us (after 4 years).

We are Seniors.

Juniors

Thoughts? Why do you ask me to write our thoughts? Juniors don't think. Juniors plan, juniors organize, juniors act . . . but think? No . . . . Juniors dream, and learn, and love, but do we contemplate it?

Each one of us gets into our junior year gradually; into fish fry, into banquet, into committees. So who's got time to think?

In the wee hours of the night, nursing our fish fryosis; do we think? Before sleeping off the after banquet blahs; do we think? Just a little?

Well, maybe just a little, but not half as much as when it's over.

A Bethany Christian graduate talks about Eastern Mennonite College

"I've had great experiences at EMC this year. There's an unmistakable atmosphere of caring here that can be found in the classroom and across campus.

"A Christian college should be both an academic institution and a brotherhood. Sometimes bureaucratic functions smother 'community.' We need to constantly struggle with this.

"What I most appreciate about EMC is its motto, 'Thy Word is Truth.' EMC recognizes that knowledge is meaningless unless it comes within the context of spiritual truth. This is what makes the program unique."

Who says college grads can't secure jobs?

When you're job-hunting, the employer will often hire the person with the most schooling. If you're a college grad, you can offer more training and experience in working with people and ideas than many who have no college. A four-year college program prepares you for a specific career area and for future career mobility.

Further, if you're from Goshen, you have the help of a Career Services staff to place you in that important first full-time job. . . . And, a practicum-internship in your chosen field to introduce you to the world of work and increase your employability.

Of our 1975 graduates who chose schoolteaching, 90 per cent are in the classroom or teaching-related positions. The percentages are also impressive for our graduates in business and nursing. We also send graduates on to further study in medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, law, the ministry.

Goshen sees a college education as a personal investment by you — to give you vision, career flexibility, and Christian and spiritual values for a lifetime.

TRANSFER OR TWO-YEAR CAREER

More than half of all college freshmen begin their educational pilgrimage at a two-year school. The focus and energy of the whole college are aimed and expended toward freshmen and sophomores. They are the important ones—the only ones. Students at Hesston prepare for transfer to Goshen, EMC and other four-year colleges or take one of seventeen two-year career programs.

"Congratulations Class of '76"

"This is the beginning of a new day. God has given you this day to use as you will. You can waste it — or use it for good, but what you do today is important, because you are exchanging a day of your life for it! When tomorrow comes, this day will be gone forever, leaving in its place something that you have traded for it. May it be gain, and not loss; good, and not evil; success, and not failure; in order that you shall not regret the price you have paid for it."
Best Wishes for a Good Life.

Sincerely,
V.H. Steury, President

"Better Quality is our Goal"

JESUS CHRIST

"THE RESURRECTION AND THE LIFE"
rose from the grave
on the first Easter,
in the body of immortal flesh and bones
HE exhibited to doubting Thomas.*

His empty tomb and
His resurrected appearances prove there is a continuity between the body that is buried and the body that is raised.

Since then public Christian burial ceremonies have been a very sacred witness,
full of comfort — for believers.
